Abstract: The OGLE III camera is being installed on the University of Tasmania's new 1.3 m telescope at Bisdie Tier in the Tasmanian midlands. The field of view will be 37x37 arcminutes - almost identical to that for the original OGLE III experiment. The camera is expected to be operational for the 2013 Galactic Bulge season. Details of the new observatory and science goals of the collaboration with the OGLE group will be discussed.
